

This Couldn't Happen!

Just because our boys have won the war, they're not running away now in order to get home for Christmas. Instead they're marching right ahead into Germany.

But are you running away?

Every time you ask the Government—except in case of real need—to give you back the money that you have put into War Savings Stamps you are doing just that.

The Government still needs your money to feed those boys and to buy them warm clothes for the winter and to keep them well and on their job.

Don't YOU run away! Hang on to your War Savings Stamps and march into Germany with the boys. Stick on the job.

Besides, it's to your own advantage to keep your Stamps. They are working for you, drawing interest day and night, week days and Sundays. They are growing in value every day you hold them.
